Beside the Seaside

Mr Brown, who was the father of Bunny Brown and his sister Sue, was in the boat business in the seaside village of Bellemere. Mr Brown rented fishing, sailing and motor boats to those who wanted them. He had his office on the dock, which was built out into Sandport Bay.

“Oh, Mother! Do you think daddy will let us go to grandpa's farm?” asked Bunny, as he and his sister Sue walked along the street. They were on their way to their father's office, after getting a letter from Grandpa Brown.

“Please ask him to let us go,” begged Sue.

“Yes, I think he will,” said Mr Brown.

The children clapped their hands with joy. Once, some years before, they had gone to their grandfather's farm in the country and they remembered what fun they had had. Now they were older, and they were sure they would have many more good times.

“Well, well!” cried Daddy Brown, as he saw his wife and the two children come into his office on the dock. “What brings you all down here? Do you want some fish or is Bunny looking for another big lobster claw?”
