WALT: explore different story openings

Today we would like you to explore the beginnings of lots of different story books. You only need to read the first page of each story as we are focusing on story beginnings. You can get your grown up to read the first pages of the stories to you, or you can have a go and read it yourself.

2 stars: have a discussion with your grown up about all the different story openings you came across. Were there any stories that had the same openings?

3 stars: write down the different story openings you came across. Can you think of any yourself?

A series of ten horizontal dashed lines for writing, each preceded by a small decorative vine-like graphic.
